A Personal Note from Malaysia Cleaning Services.com family

In yester years, people's norm was inherited from tradition. Lifestyle was conceptually conventional while information was staid and self-learned. Hence, it was the best practices within the family that were cultivated until the next best comes along.

Fast forward to today's 21st century, the very essence of life style is full of color and valor from the food intake to the place we dwell in and to the upbringing of our children. Our world of diversification and knowledge-based opens us to a plethora of choices. Where does that leave us?

Unlike yester years where "jack of all trades but master of none" rules, we pledged our lives to skills specification. Hence, for products or services unknown to us (given we were not exactly taught), our decisions to buy or hire are merely made based on those blaring into our ears the loudest.

Sadly but true, much excellence propagated was an overstatement. Even if it was genuine, we will always expect more. This is perhaps worsened due to our incessant gamma-ray exposures to news of business dealings deceit and criminal breach of trust.

Why is this happening?

It is attributed to the widening knowledge gap which causes the inevitable relationship breakdown in the simplest foundation of partnership ie trust.

We at MalaysiaCleaningServices.com saw it coming and hence strive to bridge the knowledge gap. We pride ourselves to be able to put both consumer and businesses on an even table and be able to bring forth a seamless deal which empowers both parties.

It is our pledge to create a great partnership with you with regards to wellness and honoring our promise to enrich lives of millions.

Let's get the ball rolling. Embrace yourself with reasons you should take charge of the healthy lifestyle you deserve on how you can save more than RM1000 from cleaning.

Let us take a step back and look at our spending, our investments and our savings. Are you managing your finances well? If you are, good for you but don't rest on your laurels. If you have not, start today! All it takes is a little more understanding and push to get things rolling with momentum. Let's get down to it....

It is undeniable that the correlation between money management with economic financing is so strong that it affects even the most uninteresting activity of our lives-cleaning.

Think about it...

- ✓ How much do you spend on different types of detergents in a year?
- ✓ How often you clean your house?
- ✓ How often you or your kids see the doctor due to unsuspectingly minor sickness ie flu, throat infection, fevers etc due to unhygienic surroundings?

- ✓ How many times you buy that same item, which you later found out that it is hidden underneath the pile of ... everything or what we call “rojak”?

Although we are the cleaning experts, we are not going to talk about the most affordable cleaning equipment to use in town or teach you to brew your own organic detergent. You do not need us for it, simply ask Google. But wait! Don't get disappointed yet because your disappointment just started to get more serious.

1. Reduce The Germs

According to researchers at the University of California at Berkeley, on average, people touch their faces about 16 times an hour. Some people less, others as many as 100 touches per hour. This means that chances are high for ear, nose and throat diseases transmission to occur.

Perhaps in this scenario, the most vulnerable people to succumb to these illnesses are our little ones. Therefore if our house is clean, germs will not spread as fast because the kids will not find as much dirt to eat off the floor and they will not get as sick as often or develop allergies to dust or mold. Teaching your kids to clean their hands before eating is the healthiest lesson they can get. This good nourish and nurture can potentially save at least 3 doctor visits a year or RM200.

2. Increase The Value Of Your Property.

Imagine you are going to sell your house, and then take a quick look now. Within seconds, you will magically notice all of the small dents in the drywall, battered furniture and decaying knick-knacks randomly stashed at the dark end. Perhaps you may not know that your house smells because your nose is so accustomed to it. A common saying among realtors is, "If you can smell it, you can't sell it."

Hence nothing will give you a better return on your investment than a little elbow grease. Constant cleaning of your carpets and parquet floor is important as this will keep sand particles from wearing out the color and wood luster. Similarly, keeping your walls clean can extend the period which it needs to be repainted. Otherwise extra cost incurred can be at least RM600 per year.

3. Cut Down on the Clutter.

Clutter is built up over time. It can get out of control if you have the habit of shopping for more stuff (like me). Since you will be discouraged from looking for a needed item in the clutter, you will tend to buy more. More of then than not, items in there might have expired or get old sooner than you think. This is because it is not kept at the ideal temperature and place.

Hence the more you clean the more unnecessary items you can find to throw away. However, shoving items into closed compartments is not considered placing the items properly in their "home". The less clutter, the less time you have to spend cleaning and the less money you spend buying things that you already have but couldn't find. You can cut down on spending at least by RM200 a year.

4. Educate & Discipline Everyone to Clean.

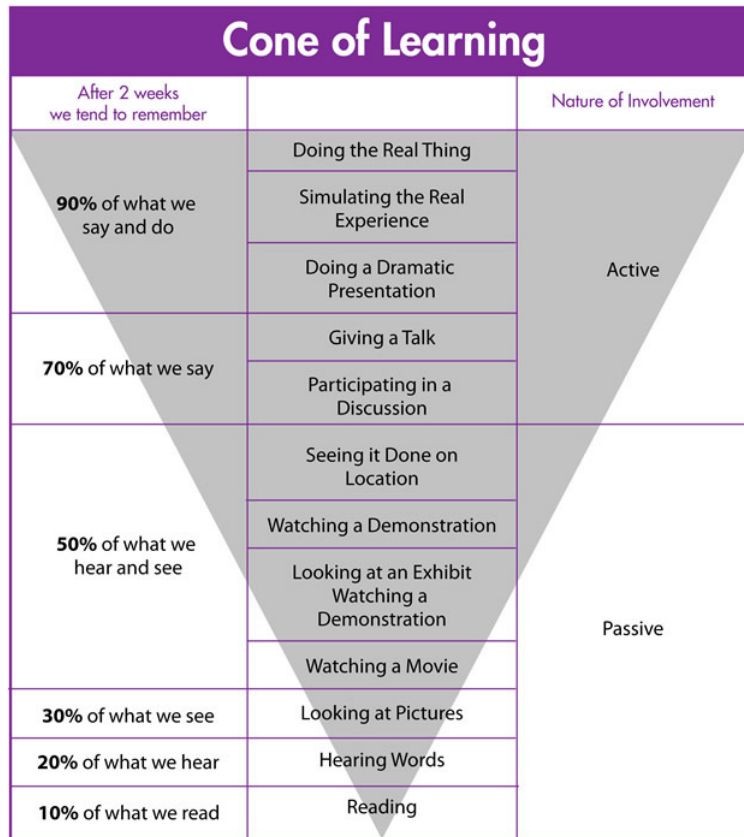

When it comes to cleaning, everyone should play their part. Every small effort like cleaning and putting the coffee back to kitchen cupboard to sweeping the floor contributes to the cleanliness of the house. We feel for mothers who constantly need to clean up after their children. It really makes a whole lot of difference. To educate them, parents and elder siblings need to set good examples for the little ones to emulate.

Referring to the cone of learning (below), statistics for reading is 10% of remembrance from reading. On the other hand, doing the real thing and stimulating the real experience accounts for 90% of remembrance. It makes sense because active learning which requires one to take massive action, and thus resulting learning the most from the subject.

Education and discipline teaches kids the value of order and structure which helps them understand motivation and goals. Something as simple as a cleaning schedule can help your kids focus on one thing at a time. This learning curve serves as a useful tool and could imbue them with the confidence to take on more complicated task in future.

For now you could save at least RM500 per year, but you can save thousands of dollars later in life.

Source: Cone of Learning adapted from (Dale, 1969)

Total savings from maintaining your house clean amount to:
 RM200+RM600+RM200+RM500 = RM1500 per year. That is a lot of money saved. So, who dare says cleaning is uneconomical and uninteresting? Happy Cleaning! ☺
